INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Washington entertains to-day 100,000 strangers. They have come in family parties, squads and companies and regiments. The hotels were filled a week ago, and private boarding houses and dwellings have since done what they could to lodge the shelterless and feed the hungry.

Fifing and drumming and the marching of clubs and troops were the enlivening elements of the early forenoon, while moving serenades, tendered to popular political favorites, served to amuse and interest the participants and the crowds. The decorators and the carpenters began ten days ago, and the noise of their sawing and pounding and the click of their tack hammers has been heard day and night ever since down to the moment of the starting of the procession.

A better day for the celebration of any such event never dawned than was to-day. Hundreds of people did not go to bed last night at all, but contented themselves in walking the streets, anxious for the dawning of day. Many of them carried grip-sacks in hand, while a few held their visiting clothes in bandboxes. At an ealy hour the people began to fill the streets and when the time for the formation of the parade had arrived, the largest number of people that this city has probably ever seen patiently awaited the order to march. All the stands that had been erected for the occasion were packed. The house tops were lined with people, and every available place from which a glimpse of the procession could be obtained was occupied. The profuse decorations fluttered in the morning breeze while contentment sat enthroned upon every face. Precisely at 10 o'clock the carriage containing President Arthur, President-elect Cleveland, Senators Sherman and Ransom, followed by a carriage containing the vice president-elect and Senator Hawley, were driven to the capitol, and the scenes along the route baffles description The presidential party was escorted by the First division alone.

The presidential party entered the capitol through the basement passageway. Mr. Cleveland went by the private door to the senate, and proceeded immediately to the vice president's room, where President Arthur engaged in signing measures passed by congress.

Later, Vice-President Hendricks was escorted into the senate chamber, and without delay, but with the solemnity and decorum befitting the occasion, the oath was administered to him by the president pro tempore. Mr. Hendricks took the gavel and called the senate to order in extra session. The new senators were then sworn in.

The Ceremony of Inauguration.

Precisely at 12.30 p. m. the head of the procession appeared, coming out of the main east door of the capitol. President Arthur stepped to the front of the platform, followed by the president-elect, Chief Justice Waite and the sergeant-at-arms of the senate. All uncovered as they stood facing the crowd, and the vast assemblage cheered again and again for several minutes. The persons who were to assist at the ceremonies were seated on the platform in the following order:

Chief Justice Waite and Senator Sherman sat with the president-elect.

The committee on arrangements occupied seats immediately to the right of the president-elect, ex-presidents and ex-vice-presidents and associate justices of the supreme court.

The vice-president, secretary and members of the senate occupied seats further on the right.

The diplomatic corps occupied seats on the left of the president and the heads of departments. The retired general of the army, the lieutenant-general of the army, the admiral of the navy, and the officers of the army and navy who had by name received the thanks of congress, governors and ex-governors of states and ex-members of the senate, took their seats just behind the president.

At. 12.40 p. m. the president-elect arose and began delivering his inaugural address.

The Inaugural Address.

Fellow Citizens: In the presence of this vast assemblage of my countrymen I am about to supplement and seal, by the oath which I shall take, the manifestation of the will of a great and free people. In the exercise of their power and right of self-government they have committed to one of their fellow-citizens a supreme and sacred trust, and he here consecrates himself to their service.

This impressive ceremony adds little to the solemn sense of responsibility with which I contemplate the duty I owe to all the people of the land. Nothing can relieve me from anxiety lest by any act of mine their interests may suffer, and nothing is needed to strengthen my resolution to engage every faculty and effort in the promotion of their welfare.

Amid the din of party strife the people's choice was made; but its attendant circumstances have demonstrated anew the strength and safety of a government of the people. In each succeeding year it more clearly appears that our democratic principle needs no apology, and that in its fearless and faithful application is to be found the surest guaranty of good government. But the best results in the operation of a government wherein every citizen has a share, largely depend upon a proper limitation of purely partisan zeal and effort, and a correct appreciation of the time when the heat of the partisan should be merged in the patriotism of the citizen.

To-day the executive branch of the government is transferred to new keeping. But this is still the government of all the people, and it should be none the less an object of affectionate solicitude. At this hour the animosities of political strife, the bitterness of partisan defeat and the exultation of partisan triumph should be supplanted by an ungrudging acquiescence in the popular will and a sober, conscientious concern for the general weal. Moreover, if from this hour we cheerfully and honestly abandon all sectional prejudice and distrust, and determine with manly confidence in one another to work out harmoniously the achievements of our national destiny, we shall deserve to realize all the benefits which our happy form of government can bestow.

On this auspicious occasion we may well renew the pledge of our

which, launched by the founders of the republic, and consecrated by their prayers and patriotic devotion, has for almost a century borne the hopes and aspirations of a great people through prosperity and peace, and through the shock of foreign conflicts and the perils of domestic strife and vicissitudes.

By the father of his country our constitution was commended for adoption as "the result of a spirit of amity and mutual concession." In that same spirit it should be administered, in order to promote the lasting welfare of the country and to secure the full measure of its priceless benefits to us and to those who will succeed to the blessings of our national life. The large variety of diverse and competing interests subject to federal control, persistently seeking the recognition of their claims, need give us no fear that "the greatest good to the greatest number" will fail to be accomplished, if in the halls of national legislation that spirit of amity and mutual concession shall prevail in which the constitution had its birth If this involves the surrender or postponement of private interests, and the abandonment of local advantages, compensation will be found in the assurance that thus the common interest is subserved and the general welfare advanced.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND THE STATES.

In the discharge of my official duty I shall endeavor to be guided by a just and unstrained construction of the constitution, a careful observance of the distinction between the powers granted to the federal government and those reserved to the states, or to the people, and by a cautious appreciation of those functions which, by the constitution and laws, have been especially assigned to the executive branch of the government.

But he who takes the oath to-day to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States only assumes the solemn obligation which every patriotic citizen, on the farm, in the workshop, in the busy marts of trade, everywhere should share with him.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The constitution which perscribes his oath, my countrymen, is yours; the government you have chosen him to administer for a time, is yours; the suffrage which executes the will of free men is yours; the laws and the entire scheme of our civil rule, from the town meeting to the state capitals and the national cpaital, is yours. Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate under the same high sanction, though in a different sphere, exercises a public trust. Nor is this all. Every citizen owes to the country a vigilant watch and close scrutiny of its public servants, and a fair and reasonable estimate of their fidelity and usefulness. Thus is the people's will impressed upon the whole framework of our civil policy—municipal, state and federal—and this is the price of our liberty and the inspiration of our faith in the republic.

ECONOMY AND EXTRAVAGANCE.

It is the duty of those serving the people in public place closely to limit public expenditures to the actual need of the government economically administered, because this bounds the right of the government to exact tribute from the earnings of labor or the property of the citizen, and because public extravagance begets extravagance among the people. We should never be ashamed of the sublicity and prudential economies which are best suited in the operation of a republican form of government, and most compatible with the mission of the American people. Those who are elected, for a limited time, to manage public affairs, are still of the people, and may do much by their example to encourage, consistently with the dignity of their official functions, that plain way of life which among their fellow citizens aids integrity and promotes thrift and prosperity.

THE POLICY OF PEACE.

The genius of our institutions, the needs of our people in their home life, and the attention which is demanded for the settlement and developement of the resources of our vast territority, dictate the scrupulous avoidance of any departure from that foreign policy commended by the history, the traditions and the prosperity of our republic. It is the policy of independence, favored by our position and defended by our known love of justice and by our power. It is the policy of peace, suitable to our interests. It is the policy of neutrality, rejecting any share in foreign broils and ambitions upon other continents, and repelling their instrusion here. It is the policy of Monroe and of Washington and Jefferson—"Peace, commerce and friendship to all nations; entangling alliances with none."

THE NATIONAL FINANCES.

A due regard for the interests and prosperity of all the people demands that our finances shall be established upon such a sound and sensible basis as shall secure the safety and confidence of business interests and make the wages of labor sure and steady, and that our system of revenue shall be so adjusted as to relieve the people from unnecessary taxation, having a due regard to the interests of capital invested and workingmen employed in American industries, and preventing the accumulation of a surplus in the treasury to tempt extravagance and waste.

THE PUBLIC DOMAIN.

Care for the property of the nation, and for the needs of future settlers, require that the public domain should be protected from purloining schemes and unlawful occupation.

HUMANITY AND MORALITY.

The conscience of the people demands that the Indians within our boundaries shall be fairly and honestly treated as wards of the government, and their education and civilization promoted, with a view to their ultimate citizenship, and that polygamy in the territories, destructive to the family relation and offensive to the moral sense of the civilized world, shall be repressed. The laws should be rigidly enforced which prohibit the immigration of a servile class to compete with American labor, with no intention of acquiring citizenship and bringing with them and retaining habits and customs repugnant to our civilization.

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

The people demand reform in the administration of the government, and the application of business principles to public affairs. As a means to this end civil service reform should be in good faith enforced. Our citizens have the right to protection from the incompetency of public employes who hold their places solely as the reward of partisan service, and from the corrupting influence of those who promise, and the vicious methods of those who expect, such rewards. And those who worthily seek public employment have the right to insist that merit and competency shall be recognized instead of party subserviency or the surrender of honest political belief.

THE RIGHTS OF THE FREEDMEN.

In the administration of a government pledged to do equal and exact justice to all men, there should be no pretext for anxiety touching the protection of the freedmen in their rights or their security in the enjoyment of their privileges under the constitution and its amendments. All discussion as to their fitness for the place accorded to them is idle and unprofitable, except as it suggests the necessity for other improvement. The fact that they are citizens entitles them to all the rights due to that relation and charges them with all its duties, obligations and responsibilities.

PRACTICAL AND INDUSTRIOUS APPLICATION.

These topics, and the constant and ever-varying wants of an active and enterprising population, may well receive the attention and the patriotic endeavor of all who make and execute the federal law. Our duties are practical, and call for industrious application, an intelligent perception of the claims of public office, and, above all, a firm determination, by united action, to secure to all the people of the land the full benefits of the best form of government ever vouchsafed to man. And let us not trust to human effort alone; but, humbly acknowledge the power and goodness of Almighty God, who presides over the destiny of nations, and who has at all times been revealed in our country's history, let us invoke His aid and His blessing upon our labors.

Mr. Cleveland turning to the chief justice and bowing to him, said: "I am now prepared to take the oath prescribed by law."

As the chief justice rose to administer the oath the vast assemblage cheered again. The president-elect stood facing the chief justice, with the crowd on his right. Chief Clerk McKenny, of the supreme court, stood just to the side of Mr. Cleveland and held the Bible upon which the oath was administered, the president-elect stood holding it with his right hand. The Bible used is a small morocco-covered, gilt-edge volume, pretty well worn. It is the Bible which Mr. Cleveland's mother gave him when he left home as a young man, and at his special request the committee of arrangements had it in readiness for the ceremony. The crowd preserved perfect quiet as the impressive ceremony of administering the oath was taking place, but when it was concluded, and after President Cleveland laid down the Bible after reverently kissing it, and shook hands with the chief justice, who was the first to congratulate him, the cheering was long and loud.

The Parade.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the capitol the procession escorted the presidential party back to the White House. The two carriages which contained President Cleveland and ex-President Arthur, Vice President Hendricks, and the senate committee of arrangements took positions in the first division, and the line started The greatest enthusiasm was manifested all along the route. When the head of the line reached Fifteenth street, a halt was made, and the president and ex-president left the line and proceeded by way of Executive avenue to the White House, which the party entered by the rear door. The vice president's carriage proceeded up Fifteenth street nearly to New York avenue before leaving the line. Hendricks, however, soon joined the president at the White House, and when everything was in readiness the entire party proceeded to the reviewing stand on Pennsylvania avenue, directly in front of the mansion and the order was given for the line to move. The reviewing stand had been profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and presented a beautiful appearance. The president and ex-president were placed on a project platform, which was covered with flags so as to make a handsome canopy, and at the same time so arranged as to afford a clear and unobstructed view of the procession. Arm chairs were placed upon it for their use, but the president remained standing during the entire review. Ex-President Arthur sat on his left, Vice President Hendricks and the members of his household occupied seats to the right and just back of the president, while the families and friends of the president and ex-president sat in the front row on the right. Among those who occupied seats on the presidential stand were Secretaries Frelinghuysen, McCulloch, Lincoln, Chandler and Teller, Postmaster-General Hatton, Lieutenant-General Sheridan, Major-General Hancock, Messrs. Manning, of New York; Vilas, of Wisconsin; Endicott, of Massachusetts, and Senators Bayard and Garland, Colonel Lamont, Mayor Grace ex-Mayor Cooper, of New York, and a large number of other prominent persons, including many officers of the army and navy and members of the diplomatic corps. There were a great number of ladies on the grand stand, and their rich costumes added brilliancy to the scene. It is estimated that there were on the stand about one thousand persons.

It was 2.10 o'clock when the president, escorted by Colonel Berrett, of the inaugural committee, took his place at the front of the stand and the head of the procession started from the corner of Fifteenth street to pass in review. The president's appearance was the signal for a great shout from the concourse of people who had gathered in front of the stand and filled the streets for several hundred yards both ways. The president quietly bowed his acknowledgements.

A good deal of confusion was caused in the vicinity of the grand stand by the efforts of the police to clear the street for the approaching procession. The work was finally accomplished but with great difficulty, mounted police moving into the dense throng of spectators and driving them back with their batoons. The review from the presidential stand was a grand sight and it was the generally expressed opinion, that no more brilliant pageant had ever been witnessed in this country. All the organizations gave a marching salute as they passed the grand stand and the president at first recognized the compliment by raising his hat to every separate command, but the length of the line and the chilliness of the breeze which sprang up compelled him before the second division passed to keep his head covered and in most cases to limit his acknowledgements to a slight bow. In view of the fact that the procession was three hours in passing it is not a matter for surprise that the president had to abandon his intention of standing with his head uncovered through out the review.

The civic organizations made a very fine display, and were highly complimented by the presidential party. Taken all in all, as a combined military and civic display, the procession was undoubtedly the largest and finest ever seen in Washington. The number of men who marched past the presidential stand is estimated at 25,000.

Vice-President Hendricks felt somewhat fatigued, and returned to the executive mansion before all the civic organizations had passed. Many other persons also left the stand before the parade was over because of weariness.

At the conclusion of the review the president and party proceeded to the dining room of the White House, where they partook of lunch prepared for them by ex-President Arthur. There were present, besides the members of ex-President Arthur's cabinet, Vilas, Manning, Lamont, and several others.

The Inaugural Ball.

The brilliant finale of the inauguration ceremonies was the ball to-night. It put the cap sheaf of gaiety on the more formal and serious though grand ceremonial which preceded it. Beauty lent it's aid to crown the triumph of the incoming administration, and amid the light festivities of the ball room, the celebration of the day came to a close.

The dancing hall was ablaze of light and color, lighted by sixty siemens of gas burners, of five hundred candle power each, suspended from a roof whose peak is lost to sight, ninety feet above the floor, in a perfect breast or streamers and flags, and on whose acre of waxed floor several thousand couples in brillant toilets are moving about in the mazes of the dance, while thousand more circle around on the outskirts in a ceaseless promenade, and other thousands look down upon them from the surrounding balconies, is the framework of an ensemble which, bursting suddenly upon one's view, is magnificently bewildering. One must be in the ball room some time before the details of the scene begin to present themselves to notice.

Dancing began at 11 o'clock, the music furnished by the Germania Orchestra of Philadelphia. Chas. M. Smith, conductor and Henry Felting, Jr., assistant conductor.

It was half past 10 o'clock when President Cleveland arrived at the ball room. He was immediately escorted to the president's room, where for half an hour he held a formal reception committee and a small number of distinguished persons being presented to him: The president was accompanied by Miss Cleveland and Mrs. Hoyt, his sisters, and by his brother, the Rev. W. N. Cleveland and wife and their two sons; Mr. Hastings, his nephew; Miss Hasting, Miss Nellie Yeomans and Miss Annie Yeomans, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon, the president's brother-in-law and wife, of Toledo, and Colonel and Mrs. Lamont.

About the same time ex-President Arthur arrived at the ball room, and he too was escorted to the president's room. With him were Secretaries Lincoln and Chandler, Secretary and Mrs. McCulloch, Attorney General Brewster and Mrs. Brewster, Postmaster General Hatton and Mrs. Hatton, Secretary Teller and Mrs. Teller, Judge Davis, of the court of claims, and Mrs. Davis, Miss Lucy Frelinghuysen, Allan Arthur and Marshal McMichael. Vice President Hendricks arrived about the same time and joined the president.

In the room at this time there was a large and distinguished gathering, including persons of the most diverse shades of political opinion. Besides persons already named there were present Senator Bayard, Colonel Nilas, General Sheridan and Mrs. Sheridan, General Rosecrans, Daniel Manning and wife, Senator Pendleton, Richard Merrick, Representative Barbour, Senator Wade Hampton, Senator Brown, of Georgia, Justice Field of the supreme court and Speaker Carlisle and Mrs. Carlisle.

There was no informal reception by President Cleveland, but a large number of persons pressed about him, and some of the gentlemen standing in the immediate vicinity made the presentation. After half an hour spent in this manner the room became overcrowded, and the president and vice president, the former escorted by Senator Pendleton and Richard T. Merrick, and the latter by Representative Eaton and S. V. Niles, left the room and made the round of the ball room, the baud playing "Hail to the Chief" during the time occupied in walking around the room. After the presidential party had left the room the crowd continued to pour into it through doors, unaware that Cleveland had left.

The scene in the ball-room at this time was exceedingly brilliant. The large hall was completely filled with a constantly moving crowd, numbering several thousands, while from the balconies thousands more looked down upon the scene. The bright toilets of the ladies, the flowers and glittering jewels, the decorations and lights, were the prominent features of a scene long to be remembered.

Extraordinary Fireworks.

To-night, about half past eight, just as the immense crowd was returning from the exhibition of fireworks on the White Lot, the Flambeau club, of Topeka, Kansas, came marching in regular open order down Fifteenth street, between the Corcoran building and the treasury department in a perfect tornado of fire, accompanied by an incessant volley of explosions and the continuous hissing and roar of ascending rockets. Every member of the club carrying over his shoulders a capacious white bag filled with rockets, roman candles, red and green fire, catherine, wheels, torpedoes, bombs, and fireworks of every conceivable description, which were lighted on portable frames, or discharged from sheet iron tubes, with such never slackening rapidity as to literally fill the streets with a hurricane of firery projectiles and a dense cloud of smoke, through which could be only dimly seen the white spectral uniforms of the club.

The marching was perfect in time and regularity, the incessant discharge of fireworks not being allowed to interfere in the least degree with the precision of movement. People in vehicles fled in terror before the advancing column of smoke and flame, which was headed by two or three huge blazing wheels, and from every part of which burst fire and explosions.

The club was constantly and skilfully supplied with fresh ammunition from a large wagon which followed it, and as it wheeled from Fifteenth street into Pennsylvania avenue in the glare of red fires, amid the shouts of a vast multitude of spectators, it suggested a moving British square attacked on all sides at night, and defending itself with musketry, bombs, rockets and hand grenades. It was one of the most striking features of the whole pyrotechnical display, and the club was followed down the avenue by at least 10,000 people.

FOURTH OF MARCH, the glorious day on which the republican domenion of twenty-four years' standing went out of existence and the sun of democratic administration rose was a day of jubilee for Washington as well as the country-at-large. It was a day which will ever be a bright spot in the history of great America. The great calamity of the rich growing richer and the poor growing poorer will under the new administration with strict democratic principles be removed and the business man, farmer and laborer will again stand on a more equal footing with the monopolist and speculator. The new President, surrounded by an able cabinet, which is composed of the worthiest men of the party, gives fair promise to care for the welfare of all, making it a government for the people and by the people.

THE inaugral address of President Cleveland, which our readers will find on the first page, bears the real democratic stamp and embraces the following sound principles: Strict honesty, independence from all cliques, introduction of utmost economy in governmental affairs and proper estimation and promotion of the interests of the people. Furthermore the new president proclaims in a truly American spirit the so-called Monroe doctrine, which forbids foreign nations to meddle in the affairs of the United States and vice versa. A strict adherance to this principle alone secures for this republic peace and friendship with all nations of the world. In a nutshell —Cleveland's inaugural address is a first-class programme of his coming administration and at once imbues the American people with confidence and the highest esteem for him.

THE Grant retirement bill was signed by the President and unanimously confirmed by the Senate, in open executive session, amid thunders of applause on the floor and in the galleries.

The New Cabinet.

The following are the names of the members of President Cleveland's Cabinet which were sent to the senate on March 5th, and their nominations confirmed on Friday March 6th, without any opposition ·

Secretary of State—Thomas Francis Bayard, of Delaware.

Secretary of the Treasury—Daniel Manning, of New York.

Secretary of War—William Crownin shield Endicott, of Massachusetts.

Secretary of the Navy—William C. Whitney, of New York.

Secretary of the Interior—Lucius Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi.

Postmaster General—William Freeman Vilas, of Wisconsin.

Attorney General—Augustus H. Garland, of Arkansas.

A Philadelphia Times reporter in commenting on the cabinet speaks in the following complimentary terms of the different members :

AN ABLE CABINET.

The new Cabinet is one of the ablest selected in modern times and there is not a shade of suspicion attaching to its integrity. Bayard is the embodiment of the most chivalrous honor and purity in statesmanship, and Lamar and Garland, his Southern associates, are as stainless as himself and fairly reflect the exceptional standard of public honesty that was so long a characteristic of leading Southern statesmen. Bayard will bring to the State Department not only ripe experience and a broad comprehension of the high duties of his office, but his conservative Democracy, so scrupulously maintained in the surges of faction and expendiency in politics, will greatly assure the commercial, business and industrial interests of the country. He is not an expert politician in the present acceptation of the term, and the more vigorous and aggressive elements of the party fear that Beyard, Lamar and Garland will not put themselves in accord with the Democratic commonality.

Lamar is untried in administrative position and it is not claimed that he is likely to make a vigorous secretary of the Interior by his own personal labors; but it is expected that he will organize his department wisely and practically and that he will be to the fore in all great emergencies and especially when the government is called upon to grapple with the colossal speculative combinations which have made the Interior their oujective point.

Garland is very generally regarded by all parties as one of the best-equipped men in the whole country for the Attorney Generalship and the wisdom of the choice is admitted on every side. Both Lamar and Garland were soldiers and statesmen in the Confederacy and Lamar had been in Congress before the war; but the complete dethronement of sectionalism is exhibited in the general welcome accorded to these thoroughly representative Southern men coming into the Cabinet. True, Grant had set the example by calling the Ex-Confederate Ackerman to Garland's place a dozen years ago and Hayes had repeated the lesson by the appointment of Ex-Confederate Key to the Cabinet eight years ago; but it was not pretended that Ackerman and Key voiced the sentiment of the South in the government, while Lamar and Garland admitedly reflect the sincere convictions of the large majority of the reconstructed States in favor of patriotic and honest administration of the government of the Union.

MANNING AND WHITNEY.

Of the Northern members of the new Cabinet Manning is the broadest and most practical. His great resources are his general intelligence, his unfailing common sense and his cool, clear judgement, that always asserts itself under the most trying circumstances. He is a trained business man, a practical banker, and he has no crank notions of patent inventions about finance. He understands that the laws of finance and trade are old as the world and irresistible, requiring only sensible adaptation to present necessities, and he will keep a steady eye and a strong hand on the business tranquility of the country. He will attempt nothing brilliant and he will therefore be safe.

Whitney, his colleague from New York, is one of the able men of his State, but like Manning untried in the broad field of national statesmanship. He is more mercurial than Manning, but is a shrewd and resolute leader, and will stake a reputation that he highly values upon a thoroughly prudent and progressive administration of the Navy. Both Manning and Whitney are close personal and political friends of President Cleveland; they know much of both public men and political affairs that he must learn from others, and he naturally wants them to share the responsibility before the world that they would be called on to assume if not officially connected with the government.

THE WESTERN MEMBER.

Colonel Vilas is the youngest member of the Cabinet, being only forty-five and one year the junior of Whitney. He was a gallant soldier and is regarded as the most promising young Democrat of the Northwest. The large adverse political majority of Wisconsin was not calculated to inspire political ambition and he has devoted himself assiduously to his profession since he retired from the army. He was forced to the front at the Chicago Convention, of which he was made permanent president, and his ability and admirable bearing in that body gave him national fame. He is an accomplished and goahead Western man and it is not doubted that he will make a most creditable Postmaster General and a terror to the whole pestiferous brood of Star route thieves.

Judge Endicott is the embodiment of the best element of New England Democracy. His selection will not be welcomed by the debauched Butler fragments that hang around the edges of the party in Massachusetts, but it will emphasize the purpose of the administration to have honest government and honest politics in every part of the country. He is a practical Democrat in faith, but his appointment is specially acceptable to the Republican Independents who supported Cleveland's election.

Such are the chief qualities which distinguish the new ministry, and its undisputed integrity and ability will be gratefully appreciated by the whole country, regardless of dividing party lines.

ANOTHER PROTEST.—Last week's communication of "John Plowman" of Miles township, on the "New Court House Question" is followed up this week by the decisive preamble and resolution of the Progress Grange of Centre Hall, published below, showing that Potter township joins in the opposition to such an untimely and expensive undertaking :

At a meeting of Progress Grange, Centre Hall, Pa., Feb. 25th, 1885, the following preample and resolution was passed by an unanimous vote :

WHEREAS, at the last session of Court of Common Pleas of Centre county, the Court declarcd in favor of the erection of a new Court House, and

WHEREAS, it is comparitively only a few years since it was rebuilt and remodeled and is still in good condition and ample for all the necessities of the Court, therefore be it

Resolved, by the members of Progress Grange and citizens of Potter township, that we enter our protest against the assumption of so unwarrantable an action on the part of the Court at a time when every department of trade and industry is prostrated and under the circumstances, an outrage upon the labor and industries of the county which we call upon all good citizens of the county to protest against.

There were few others than those of the family of the deceased. After the obsequies the body remained in the church until the afternoon, when it was taken to Brownsville, Pa.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9, 1885.

The inaugural ceremonies upon Mr. Cleveland's accession on the 4th, were attended with greater enthusiasm and more elaboration of display, both military and civil, than have been witnessed in any of the score of inaugurations that have preceeded it. There was neither halt nor hitch from beginning to end, and although participated in by more than a quarter of a million of people, there was no fighting, no drunkenness and no disorder whatever. The ovation extended by the people to Mr. Cleveland was quite as freely given to Mr. Hendricks whose well known countenance was readily recognized by the immense crowd that lined Pennsylvania Avenue from one end to the other. A feature of the ceremonial which was peculiarly gratifying was the reading of the inaugural address by the President-elect, whose voice was heard and whose utterances were distinctly conveyed to the ears of more than fifteen thousand people. The President's delivery was not only earnest and forcible but at times was very eloquent, eliciting thundering bursts of applause. Of course by the time this reaches you the address will have been sent to you by telegraph, so that you can then judge of its merits. I can only say that here it has won the admiration of everybody, friend and foe alike, because it gave no uncertain sound of what might be expected of a Democratic administration that has the task of correcting the numberless abuses that a twenty years of Republican rule has inaugurated, tolerated and encouraged.

In the admirable closing address of Speaker Carlisle, he paid his particular respects to the modern Congressman who deems it his peculiar mission to draft bills and introduce them. The Speaker said that from the organization of the government to the close of the Twenty-Fifth Congress, a period of fifty years, there have been but eight thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven bills introduced, while in the present Congress alone there have been eight thousand six hundred and thirty! If this practice does not require some constitutional or other treatment, I know of no governmental abuse that does. Hardly a single appropriation bill in the general class nowadays, is not a dratt upon the Treasury for more money than the appropriations of ten years would cover fifty years ago, when the net expenditures for running the Government annually did not amount to as much as is now required to build an ordinary public building in New York, Chicago or San Francisco.

Superior Excellence.

The reasons for PERUNA'S superior excellence in all diseases, and its modus operandi, are fully explained in Dr. Hartman's lecture, reported in his book on the "Ills of Life and How to Cure Them," from page 1 to page 10 though the whole book should be read and studied to get the full value of this par excellent remedy. These books can be had at all the drug stores gratis.

W. D. Williams, U. S. Pension Agent and Notary Public, New Vienna, Clinton County, Ohio, writes: "I take great pleasure in testifying to your medicines. I have used about one bottle and a half, and can say I am almost a new man. Have had the catarrh about twenty years. Before I knew what it was, had settled on the lungs and breast, but can now say I am almost well. Was in the army, could get no medicine there that would relieve me."

Col. E. Finger, Ashland, Ohio, writes: "I am happy to say I have used several bottles of your medicine called PERUNA, and my health has been greatly improved by it. I cheerfully recommend PERUNA to all who suffer with heart trouble, as being an invaluable medicine."

Rev. J. M. Ingling, Altamont, Ill., writes: "My father-in-law, who resides with me has been using your PERUNA for kidney disease, which has afflicted him for forty years and could get no relief until he saw your medicine. I induced him to try a bottle, which he did, and the one bottle of PERUNA and one bottle of MANALIN has given him more relief than all the other medicines he ever used."

Mr. Robert Grimes, Readville, Ohio, writes: "My wife has been an intense sufferer from chronic catarrh, and after every other remedy had failed she commenced to use your PERUNA and MANALIN. They have helped my dear wife more than anything she has ever used. She has now taken two bottles, and is so much better that she will never quit its use until she is entirely well. It has wonderfully improved her sight. We think PERUNA and MANALIN will cure any disease."

R. Palmer, Pastor of the A. M. E. Church, No. 192 Canal Street, Wilkesbarre Luzerne Co., Pa., writes: "Having used your PERUNA, and by experience became acquainted with its value, I write asking you to please send me five bottles of PERUNA and one of MANALIN by express and oblige, your humble servant."

Cook Bros., Prospect, Marion County, Ohio, writes: "We have a good trade on PERUNA, our customers speak well of it

The use of Iodoform or Mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easy detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy in the market today is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of chronic and acute cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents; of druggists. 7-4t

At Scottsville, Va., a little girl aged 8 years killed her cousin, Melville Barnett, aged 7, striking him on the head with a shovel and producing concussion of the brain.

—Jared Kreamer's meat market on Main street, with that excellent butcher John Miller in attendance opened last week. They expect to erect a new slaughter house along the mill race, back of Wm. Bright's residence this spring.

—Miss Kate Keen, one of the daughters of High Constable Keen, after having been absent for several weeks on a visiting tour to New Berlin, Milton, Mifflinburg and other places is at present at her parent's house on Penn street.

—An excellent sermon by Rev. Dietzler, of Adamsburg, Pa., was listened to last Sunday evening in the Luth. church. Though comparatively young, the reverend gentleman gave marked proof that he is an educated and thinking man.

—W. J. Springer, the barber, has received several articles, ornamental and useful in his trade. A fine colored street lamp in front of his shop will tell where he holds forth. Jacob is a man who goes with the times and who believes in modern improvements.

—Miss Kate Alexander and her sister Miss Maggie intend moving to Centre Hall about the first of April, where they will reside with their brother, Dr John Alexander. We are sorry to see two such estimable ladies depart from our midst, while Centre Hall is to be congratulated.

NOTICE.—Having been appointed agent by the Buck Thorn Fence Co., for the sale of the celebrated Buck Thorn Steel Barbed Fencing, I invite persons wanting this handsome, lasting and cheap article to call on me.
J. B. FISHER,
10-3m. Penn Hall, Pa.

—Mrs. Sarah Catherman who has been confined to the house for several weeks by sickness, was out yesterday for the first time. May she regain her full health.

—On Saturday, March 28th, at one o'clock, p. m., C. Alexander and A. R. Alexander, executors, will sell on the premises, corner Main and Penn street, Millheim, some valuable personal property. See Bills.

—The report of the Central Penn'a Conference of the Ev. Association reached us too late for this week's issue. Will publish it next week. Rev. B. Hengst and S. *M. Mo*ntz are the preachers stationed on Centre circuit.

—The double funeral at Hartleton of Mrs. James Musser and her daughter, Lillie, on Wednesday, March 4th, was very largely attended by their many relatives and friends. Nearly all the relations from this place were in attendance. Mother and daughter were buried in one grave. Rev. Finkle, of the Hartleton Lutheran charge officiated.

FARM FOR RENT.—The farm of George Breon, deceased, situate in Gregg township, about three miles south of Spring Mills, can be rented. It contains about 75 acres of cultivated land, with good water and an abundance of fruit on the premises. Come and see the property. At present occupied by PETER A. BREON.

NOTICE.—All persons using the Red Barn or any part of the ground or buildings, known as the Deshler and Jordan property on Penn street, Millheim, excepting the ice house of Roop and Reifsnyder, will please vacate on the first day of April 1885, otherwise the articles will be disposed of according to law.
D. I. BROWN.

—D. S. Kauffman & Co., have purchased the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Reighard, on Main street, opposite their present stand; and expect to erect a store house, 24 x 90 feet thereon, which is to be finished and ready for occupancy by the 15th of May. A new building on that site is a much-needed improvement to the central part of Millheim.

—Major Fisher, of Penn Hall, is at present receiving his new machinery for the Farmer's Mills Flouring Mill. It comes all the way from Milwaukee, Wis., and when placed and in running order this spring, we can look for superior and unequaled flour. Mr. F. means business and that means success and perfect satisfaction to his many customers.

—SAYS neighbor Smith, "My little girl was pale and sickly, rapidly losing flesh, appetite variable, and sleep much disturbed. Her condition was becoming alarming. Was advised by a friend to try McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. Administered three and she expelled the enormous number of 132 worms. Neighbor Smith now thinks McDonald's Worm Powders are the greatest vermifuge in existence.

Coburn, Pa., March 9th, 1885.

—That old established cough remedy, Downs' Elixir, still more than holds its own in the public estimation, despite sharp and active competition. It is a "home remedy," and in this locality needs no words of praise from us, so well and favorably known is it. It is the standard remedy for coughs, colds and all throat troubles, with great numbers of our people, and their continued use and unsolicited recommendation of it speaks volumes in its favor.—Burlington, Vt., Free Press, January 26. 1882.

—While out sleighriding on Monday we took in Spring Mills and Penn Hall and went around to see our friends Wm. Pealer and Messrs. J. D. Long & Son. They are wide-awake merchants and report a brightening business. Besides that they are genial and accommodating men whom it is a pleasure to meet and deal with. They can't fail but be successful.

While at Penn Hall we looked in on Bartges Bro's carriage shops and were surprised at the amount of work those gentlemen have on hand. They are busy as beavers and turn out some fine jobs.

—Jos. Kleckner's convention at Coburn is in full blast. Over 50 singers were on the stage on Tuesday evening and some real good music was rendered then. Mr. Kleckner is very ably assisted by Miss Ida Herlacher, of Logansville, who presides at the organ and manifests considerable skill, while Mr. Lowell Meyer, of Centre Hall, at intervals richly treats the class and the audience by some of his laughable songs.

Many more singers from a distance will take part the latter part of the week and the concerts promise to be first-class musical entertainments. Mr. Kleckner, the jovial and efficient conductor, may justly be proud of his success so far and if the weather stays fayorable we predict full houses for Friday and Saturday evenings.

—Mr. Solomon Ettinger, of Woodward, informs us that he shipped a car load of over 700 bushels of potatoes to Philadelphia beginning of this week and that he wishes to buy 1000 bushels more for the same purpose. Sol seems to run the potato business on the wholesale plan.

—Our young gentlemanly friend, Mr. Clevan Dinges will leave Coburn for good this week and will after this be a permanent citizen and business man of Centre Hall, his native town. He has also been appointed agent for Adams Express company at that place. Our best wishes for Cleve's success accompany him.

—FOR scrofula, erysipelas, tetter, salt rheum, skin diseases, humors, sores, eruptions, pimples, blotches, swellings, tumors, boils, ulcers, scald head, ringworm, hives, and all blood disorders, no remedy ever devised equals in efficacy and power McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative Warranted.

THE FIRST OF APRIL.—As soon as we write March we are involuntarily reminded of the coming first of April. There are thousands of people to whom that day has no more meaning than any other day in the year. And there are just as many who dread the day on account of debts, interests, rents, &c. which must then be paid. The printer most always belongs to the latter class. We will have to pay considerable amounts on the first and our bank account is far from being up to the mark of meeting our obligations. We therefore request all those whoowe us on job work, advertising or subscription to help us over the dreadful First of April by a prompt remittance of their respective bills.

Letter from J. H. Reifsnyder.

Doyle, Tenn., March 7th, 1885.

MILLHEIM JOURNAL: I have to lay over about four hours here and concluded to write a few lines for the JOURNAL. I have been delayed at least a day on my trip so far. Arrived at Washington on the morning of the 3rd, remained there until the morning of the 5th. The inauguration was a grand affair, the city was crowded with people from all parts of the Union. Saw President Arthur and President Cleveland drive to the capitol together, before Cleveland was sworn in. Saw him taking the oath and heard part of the inaugural address. President Cleveland is fine looking and a good speaker. After the ceremonies at the capitol the procession formed and marched to the White House, which lasted from 2 o'clock till about 6 p. m Gen. Slocum was the commander-in-chief. I feel proud to say that Pennsylvania had more soldiers in the parade than any two states. It took the N. G's. fully one hour to pass a certain point and I was informed that there were about 9000 men in line from Pennsylvania. Vice President Hendricks, Gen. G. B. McClellan, Gov. Pattison and a host of prominent men were in line and everthing passed off orderly. The fire works in the evening were the grandest display that could be seen.

After leaving Washington I went to Lynchburg and from there to Bristol, which is on the east line of Tennessee. The land on this route is very poor, being a red clay—in fact everything looks poor. No dwellings of any account, no barns or fences. Did not see any hay or straw. The land is all bare. The farmers did not get their crops out last fall on account of the drowth. Their stock looks thin and there is not much of it The ground is still covered with snow. After crossing the Tennessee line the land is about the same until at Sweet Water, where the buildings and fences are good and where they have barns. From this place to Chattanooga the valley is pleasant and it looks as if the land was good. See plenty of straw and hay stacks and some grass or sod on the fields, but the winter grain is nearly all killed by the cold. In fact only saw several fields that looked a little green, and an old farmer told me that they would not get any wheat.

From Chattanooga I left for this place, which is the nearest R. R. point to Spencer, Van Buren Co., Tenn., where I expect to spend a week to look after timberlands. To my surprise it commenced to snow this morning and the snow is now about four inches deep. The train just arrived and I must close. Yours Respectfully,
J. H. REIFSNYDER.

Some Mosquitoes.

A Florid Description of One of the Pests of New Orleans.

Parson Heckman, a Dallas clergyman, who enjoys the reputation of being somewhat florid in his language, has returned from a brief trip to New Orleans.

'How did you enjoy yourself at the New Orleans Exposition?' asked George Stecketee.

'The exposition is grand. Everybody ought to go and see it. I liked it very much. The saloons are superb, and the eating is the best I ever had. I just lived on gumbo soup while I was there, but there is one drawback.'

'What is that?'

'The mosquitoes. They are the worst I ever saw. You get into all kinds of trouble until you get used to them. They even stop the street cars,' replied Parson Heckman.

'Now look here. That is coming it just a little too strong. I've heard of grasshoppers being so numerous as to stop railroad trains, but I draw the line at grasshoppers. Nobody, not even if he is a clergyman, can make me believe that mosquitoes can stop the street cars.'

'They do it all the same. You see the mosquitoes attack people on the streets. The pedestrians, of course, are compelled to defend themselves. They strike at the mosquitoes with their hands or try to shooh them away with handkerchiefs, or they would be eaten up. The people on the sidewalks are kept so busy with their handkerchieves and making motions with their hands, that the drivers are deceived, and stop the cars every few yards, thinking that the people on the sidewalks are hailing the cars to get on board. A conductor is bounced if he dosen't stop a car as soon as he is signalled. It took a car I was in half an hour to make one block. Most of the passengers got out and walked. That's the way the mosquitoes stop the cars. Of course, I didn't mean that the mosquitoes lifted the cars off the track.'

'Well, that's something new to me.'

'That's nothing. You know Henry Tours. He was in New Orleans when I was there. He got himself into a peck of trouble on account of the mosquitoes. He was in the hands of a doctor for three days, and he walks on crutches yet. You know what a lady's man he is, and how polite he is to the fair sex? Well, the very day he got there a lady on the street waved her handkerchief across the street. Henry immediately went up and began to converse. She hit him a lively whack on the bridge of his nose with her parasol and screamed. Her husband came out of a cigar store where he had been getting a cigar and falling upon Henry, nearly telescoped him with his fist and boot. The lady was only shaking her handkerchief to keep off the mosquitoes. Almost every day some prominent visitor from the North is taken to the morgue on a shutter, all owing to the mosquitoes. There are several of them. I tell you they are so quick that a man with seventeen hands could not keep them off.'

'Parson, don't you exaggerate a little?'

'No, sir, not a bit. I should say there were billions of them to the cubic inch. When I first got to New Orleans, I imagined that some very exciting news had just been received. I saw groupes of men who appeared to be laboring under most terrible excitement. They were gesticulating in a most extravagant manner as if they were on opposite sides in politics. I never saw such eloquence either on the stage or in the pulpit. They were really all on the most friendly terms in the world, and were merely frightening off the mosquitoes.'

'Do they bite severely?'

'They are very ravenous, indeed. In fact they bleed a stranger more than the hotel and boarding-house keepers do.'

'Can nothing be done to abate the nuisance?'

'Every remedy has been tried, but in vain. I heard before I left New Orleans that the city authorities were training pelicans to catch them, but I don't dnow how that will work. I saw some of the pelicans myself,' said Parson Heckman.]

'Parson, if you make one more trip to New Orleans, people will believe you are connected with the press.'—Texas Siftings.

In the Soudan.

Mr. J. A. Cameron, the war correspondent of the London Standard, who was killed in the battle of Abu Kleawells, sent to his paper two weeks before his death the following interesting pen picture of the country between Dongola and Khartoum traversed by the English army: "The small towns are built of sun-dried brick, on gravelly, sterile land, and are surrounded by date, orange, lemon and pomegranate trees. The Egyptian houses, even of the better class, have not much furniture. There is a bed-frame, with strips of buffalo hide stretched across it, on which are laid neatly-made maps, so that it forms a seat in the day time. Round the walls hang wooden bowls of various sizes, which are used instead of crockery. The kitchen is separate, and in it there is a stone mill for grinding corn, and three large stones forming a fireplace."

"The Nubian woman's dress,' he continued, "is a piece of dark blue calico wrapped around her waist and coming half-way down to her ankles, her head and the upper part of the body being covered by a white muslin scarf with a red border, which can be drawn across the face. Her hair is sometimes gummed into a kind of bushy circle, at others hangs down in thick masses of innumerable plaits; and necklaces of agate and amber beads, coral bracelets, silver and coral rings, earrings and massaye anklets complete the costume. The upper class in Nubia have a curious way of cleansing the skin. Every evening they rub it all over, first with a kind of dough and then with aromatic oil. This is called the dilka, and is said to be very refreshing."

THE INDIAN WAS SOBER.

The other day a rather fresh tourist got off the cars at a way station on the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fee. Seated on a stone, with a dirty blanket wrapped around him, was an aborigine. He had on moccasins and wore a scalp lock, and was just such a wild Indian as the imaginative tourist desired to meet. The latter danced before him, waved an impalpable tomahawk in the air, gave a whoop and yelled:

"Big Injun? Great chief? Wah!"

The buck grunted.

"Killum heap! Heap scalp?" shouted the tourist. Again the buck grunted and looked surprised.

"Where's wigwam? Love pale face?"

"What in thunder are you talking about?" said the buck. "Are you drunk?"

DIDN'T LIKE TO HAVE HER WAY.

"I tell you I shall do as I please!" shouted Mrs. Miff.

"Well, well, my dear. I didn't say you couldn't," replied Mr. Miff.

"And you can't stop me!!"

"I didn't say I could, my dear."

"You'd better not try!!!"

"Indeed, indeed, my dear, I won't."

"That's just all such a brute cares about his wife!!!" and Mrs. Miff prepared to cry her eyes out.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
